WRRRA Representative: 2018-2020

Rebecca Luken first learned to row with the Cincinnati Rowing Club juniors program while in high school. She spent two years on the University of Cincinnati's club team while studying art history there. Leaving rowing behind temporarily, she earned a Master's degree in library science from Indiana University and began a career as a corporate librarian and business development analyst. She has worked in this capacity for law firms, a Big Four accounting firm, and a bank. She is currently the Manager of Competitive and Market Intelligence at BakerHostetler LLP.

She was excited to resume rowing in Cleveland in 2000 in WRRRA's Summer League and Recreational programs. She joined the Masters team in fall of that year and was the women's team co-captain during the 2011 and 2012 seasons. Rebecca is proud to serve on the CRF board and support its member organizations in their efforts to foster and enable rowing in Cleveland.
